HEY, CLARK BANDS! CHECK THIS OUT!

With summer approaching, Clark bands are forced to leave campus to find places to play. Since they'll be forced to deal with real club owners, actual legal contracts, and other messy elements in the world outside Grind Central (and Spree Day), here's something that should cheer up their prospects for the future. At the very least, it should give them ideas...

Fight for your rights, we always say.

[from an unknown newspaper, 12/13/90]

"Danzig, the heavy metal band, played E.M. Loew's Theater [now extinct] December 11, 1990. Theirs was a thirsty and a lusty band. Here, verbatim, are several selected items required for the band's dressing room in the three page rider to their 12-page contract.

- Twelve (12) 1.5 litre bottles Evian Spring water

- One (1) Gallon Green Gatorade Lite
- Two (2) Cases of Miller Lite Beer (forty-eight bottles)

Of course, the above brief list does not include the abundant food, utensils, dishes and medical supplies needed in the dressing room. Nor does it include the more than 30 food and drink items required earlier for breakfast and lunch.
